

ENERGY AND INFRASTRUCTURE

Solutions for a Safer World™

Beyond traditional facilities protection, the global scope of industry companies, operating and site safety hazards, and public image perceptions, present a unique risk profile with specific security challenges.

There is no area more important to our nation than its critical infrastructure, highlighted by its oil and gas and energy-related producing facilities. Beyond traditional facilities protection, the global scope of industry companies, operating and site safety hazards, and public image perceptions, present a unique risk profile with specific security challenges.

Andrews International clients own or operate diverse business components engaged in the exploration, development, and production of crude oil and natural gas; refining and manufacturing of petroleum products; transportation of crude and finished products; and product sales. Andrews International brings to its energy and infrastructure clients an integrated approach to security that provides a range of services and a proven level of reliability, which meets both the conventional and extended security needs of the industry. The Andrews International approach focuses on threat assessments, situation analysis, and proactive planning to identify problems and issues before they arise.

Key services provided by the firm include:

- Facilities protection
- Contraband canine inspection and education programs
- Environmental health and safety
- Emergency/storm/unusual event response
- Oil spill response
- Executive protection
- Armed and unarmed security officers
- Workplace violence response
- Threat assessments

The company's rigorous selection process includes thorough testing, background checks, past performance analysis, personality/integrity profiles, and other standards. A comprehensive training program assures that Andrews International security personnel meet the highest standards of the industry, while personnel retention is much higher than the industry norm due to superior compensation packages and benefits.
